Palestinian hijackers kill hostage, threaten more

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Palestinian hijackers today killed one of 41 hostages aboard the captive VC10 British jetliner and threatened to shoot another if demands for release of imprisoned Palestinians were not met.

The hijackers, angered at a false Tunisian government report that 13 Palestinian prisoners had been flown in from Cairo to meet one of their demands, shot the hostage in the open door of the plane and let the body drop to the ground.

The Tunisian news agency later identified the dead hostage as Werner Gustav Kehl, 43, a German citizen working as director of a bank in Zurich.

Tunisian Foreign Minister Habib Chatti told an airport news conference he was calling an urgent meeting of ambassadors of the United States and Western European countries to ask their help in saving the lives of the hostages. He did not indicate what sort of action he wanted them to take.

Paw Paw girl dies in crash

A 17-year-old Paw Paw girl was killed Friday when her car crashed into a field on the Angling Blacktop south of Paw Paw.

Pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by Lee County Deputy Coroner Robert Torman was Pamela R. Cushman, 17, Paw Paw.

Miss Cushman was killed when she was pinned under the rear axle of her car. State police believe the Cushman vehicle was traveling on Angling Blacktop when a wheel dropped off the right side of the pavement. The Cushman girl attempted to pull the car back onto the road when she lost control, swerved over the centerline, then came back to the right side of the road and rolled over twice through a ditch and a field. Miss Cushman was thrown from the car and pinned under the rear axle.

An inquest into the accident is scheduled Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Torman Funeral Home, Paw Paw.

Miss Cushman had attended Paw Paw High School.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Cushman; three sisters, Mandy, Irene Madge and Wendy, all at home, and three brothers, James, Leslie and Peter, all at home.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a.m. in the Torman Funeral Home, Paw Paw. Burial will be in Wyoming Cemetery. Visitation will be held Sunday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the funeral home.

In Cairo, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy and his aides reviewed developments at a two-hour meeting but issued no statement.

Egyptian Ministry of Interior sources said the suburban villa where the guerrilla prisoners were believed held had been placed under heavy guard.

The Tunisian officials who admitted planting the false story said that in fact an official Palestine Liberation Organization delegation had arrived from Cairo in the early hours of the morning but brought only one of the 13 prisoners.

The official said the hijackers became extremely irate when they discovered the deception and told the control tower negotiators that they would carry out their threat to start executing the hostages.

The three dissident Palestinian guerillas had repeatedly postponed their deadline for the moment when they threatened to begin shooting their 41 passengers, one at a time.

At 8 a.m. a man emerged from the control tower, walked up to the British Airways VC10 jetliner and walked in through the cockpit door. He was believed to be an official of the PLO negotiating with the hijackers.

While he was inside, the rear door was opened and a man in a shirtless stood for a moment in the opening his hands clasped in front of him. A shot rang across the airfield and the man was seen to drop to the ground. A girl, apparently a hostess, quickly shut the door behind him.

An Arabic voice on the radio link between the plane and the control tower was heard to scream, "One man is dead."

Interior Minister Tahar Belkhodja was heard on the short-wave radio replying to the hijackers: "In that case, you will take your responsibilities and we will take ours."

Yasir Arafat, head of the PLO, was quoted by Radio Tunis as condemning the hijacking as an attempt to "sabotage the Palestinian cause."

Tunisian authorities said the Dutch government told them it was prepared to release two other Palestinians from a Dutch prison to meet a second hijacker demand. The two are serving five-year terms for hijacking another British plane last spring.

The airliner was enroute from London to Singapore and Brunei when the gunmen, disguised as maintenance men, took over the plane during a stop at Dubai in the Persian Gulf. In the takeover a stewardess and a porter were wounded by shotgun fire. Both were taken off the plane before it lifted off.

Tunisian authorities said the hostages still on the plane included 23 passengers, 10 crew members and eight Dubai ground personnel. The passengers included British, Dutch, Belgians and West Germans. There were no Americans.

The hijackers called themselves "The Group of Martyr Ahmed Abdel Ghafour." Ghafour, a guerrilla opposed to Arafat's leadership, was assassinated Sept. 12 in Beirut. Some Palestinians charged Arafat was behind the murder.

Israel rejects U.N. move

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel today angrily rejected U.N. General Assembly resolutions endorsing Palestinian statehood and granting observer status to the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO).

A foreign ministry statement said the assembly decisions "are a badge of shame" for the organization and made a mockery of the spirit that moved its founders 29 years ago after the defeat of Nazi tyranny.

"These resolutions demonstrate the sad truth that the forum, originally designed to be a platform for peace and brotherhood among the nations of the world, has become a rostrum for the encouragement of terror and incitement to war," the statement said.

"It must be recognized that enmity and hypocrisy, together with appeasement and surrender to blackmail, have combined to reduce the U.N. General Assembly to the depths to which it has sunk."

Ford, Brezhnev talk on nuclear control

VLADIVOSTOK, U.S.S.R. (AP) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, meeting for the first time, talked for more than six hours today on the complex nuclear arms control issue today, parting only after midnight.

They canceled a scheduled dinner in order not to interrupt the marathon conference, which began after they arrived at a suburban resort area in mid-afternoon.

While the two leaders conferred, the Soviet side issued a statement approved by Ford which spoke of a "determination to make all necessary efforts" to give recent improvements in U.S.-Soviet relations "an irreversible character."

Ford took advantage of an indoor pool near the meeting site to take a 15-minute swim before going into the conference.

Deputy White House press secretary John Hushen reported the President swam four laps of the crawl, one of backstroke, two breaststroke and one "miscellaneous."

"He holds the American record for Vladivostok," said the White House spokesman.

Ford and Brezhnev opened their talks aboard a luxurious Siberian train today and an authoritative Soviet commentator declared they had "a chance to settle problems — all problems."

Flying in from South Korea via Japan, Ford was greeted by Brezhnev, the Communist party general secretary, at Vozdvizhenka military airport some 64 miles from here, then rode with the Soviet leader by train to the Vladivostok area resort of Ussurek.

On the flight to Siberia, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said of the mini-summit: "I expect it to be a success."

"They didn't come this far and we didn't come all the way here so that there would be a confrontation."

Aboard the train that moved at a stately pace across the bleak snow-clad Siberian countryside, Moscow television commentator Valention Zorin seemed to echo Kissinger's sentiments.

"I believe both leaders have a chance to settle problems — all problems," he declared.

Zorin said he thought the principal topic would be efforts to forge a new U.S.-Soviet agreement on limiting offensive nuclear weapons.

Kissinger told reporters that "under no circumstances can there be an agreement" signed and sealed now. But he said he was "somewhat optimistic" that it would be ready sometime next year.

The secretary of state said the Middle East would be the second most important item on the agenda. However, a senior U.S. official said aboard Ford's plane there was no "acute crisis" in the area and that neither power has an interest in escalating tensions.

The hilly city of Vladivostok, 4,000 miles east of Moscow and 700 miles northwest of Tokyo, is often referred to as the Soviet Union's San Francisco. It is also the main port for the Soviet Pacific fleet and has been closed to foreigners since before World War II.

The two leaders will wind up their talks Sunday, after which Ford will fly back to Washington, refueling at Anchorage, Alaska.

The President, who began his Far East trip Monday with a four-day visit to Japan, flew to Vladivostok with a brief stop in Tokyo after a one-day trip to South Korea.

In two hours of talks Friday in Seoul with President Chung Hee Park, Ford gave assurances that the United States would maintain its 38,000-man troop strength in South Korea and, if Congress goes along, spend up to $500 million modernizing the Korean armed forces.

The American leader also raised the possibility of eventual U.S. recognition of North Korea, provided China and the Soviet Union agree to do the same with the Seoul government.

Rockefeller may sell $1.9 million in oil stock to quiet concerns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller says he is considering selling all $1.9 million of his oil stock in an effort to lay to rest any concern over potential conflict of interest.

Rockefeller also agreed Friday during his testimony to the House Judiciary Committee to talk to his brothers and sister about giving details on the entire Rockefeller wealth to congressional confirmation committees.

But the former New York governor said, as did several committee members that unless he can establish public confidence in his integrity any move to insulate himself from his money will do little good.

"If people don't trust me," he said, "I don't think they will be convinced by any gesture I might make."

The Senate Rules Committee unanimously recommended Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president Friday and, despite the concern over money, questioning in the House committee indicated only five to seven of the 38 members will oppose him.

Such overwhelming recommendation by the two committees would virtually assure Rockefeller's confirmation by the full House and Senate.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie said he was concerned about the Rockefeller family's $20 million in political contributions over 18 years and said he believed that money was partly responsible for Rockefeller's election as New York governor and the late Winthrop Rockefeller's as Arkansas governor.

Under Waldie's questioning, Rockefeller acknowledged the reason many of his loans to public officials have turned into gifts has been to conform to the law against giving gifts to public officials.

The vice president-designate told the committee and newsmen early in the hearings that he was trying to think of something he could do to end the question of potential conflict of interest once and for all. But he indicated it was difficult.

When Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, suggested he do something like sell all of his oil stock since that is so closely linked to the Rockefeller wealth, Rockefeller replied: "It's under study."

Auto industry swept by layoffs

DETROIT (AP) — Massive worker layoffs have swept relentlessly through the auto industry with all four U.S. auto makers slashing production in response to tumbling sales.

Cutbacks announced by Ford and American Motors will boost December jobless rolls to 178,000 auto workers, more than a quarter of the industry's 700,000 blue-collar work force.

Nearly half the furloughs are for indefinite periods.

December layoffs will affect 61 per cent of Chrysler's hourly workers, 24 per cent at AMC, 20 per cent at Ford and 19 per cent at General Motors.

Observers predict the layoff toll will climb still higher in the coming weeks with an expected further drop in sales.

New model sales are off 30 per cent from a year ago, and the auto companies say they will continue to trim production to match sales.

United Auto Workers officials say that means more layoffs. Ford said Friday it is cutting production at 11 of 20 car and truck plants and most of 45 manufacturing plants for up to five weeks between Thanksgiving and March 1.

That will eliminate 94,000 cars and 34,000 trucks from Ford production plans and cause the temporary layoff of 32,500 workers.

Ford will close or curtail operations at nine assembly plants next month. It will idle 22,500 workers temporarily, 3,000 indefinitely.

Ford said the cutbacks will affect plants at San Jose, Calif.; Norfolk, Va.; Kansas City, Mo.; Dearborn, Mich.; Metuchen, N.J.; St. Thomas, Ont.; Wayne, Mich.; Mahwah, N.J., and Louisville, Ky.

Earlier Friday, AMC said it is suspending Gremlin and Hornet assembly for five days next month, idling 8,000 workers in Wisconsin and Canada. AMC sales since Oct. 1 are off more than 50 per cent.

GM is shutting nine assembly plants and laying off 30,000 workers for one or two weeks next month. Chrysler is closing five of six car plants for six weeks beginning next Wednesday to cut fourth-quarter production by 50,000 cars.

Chrysler also said Friday it is laying off 11,000 white-collar workers, including some designers and engineers, for five weeks beginning Dec. 2.

Chrysler will have 64,200 blue collar workers idled by production cutbacks in December. Nearly 30,000 were given indefinite furloughs.

GM has 40,000 workers on indefinite layoff; 30,000 more are set for temporary furloughs next month.

Not a buyer in sight

Thousands of new automobiles fill a lot at the Chrysler plant in Belvidere. The plant, like other Chrysler operations across the country, will suspend production from Nov. 27 to Jan. 6, 1975, because inventories have built up too high. Autos in the upper lot belong to employees. (AP Wirephoto)

Inflation control and panic danger

By ANN SCHWIER

The voices of doom come at us from all sides: Double-digit inflation! Oil shortages! Food shortages! Unemployment rising! Real output falling! One cannot escape the dreary, and scary, headlines dominating the media. And worst of all is the nagging fear that there is really no answer, that the voices of doom may be right and panic is indeed justified.

The answer is no!—If we look at the various scare figures in perspective and at the same time recognize that there is truth in the old adage that we cannot have our cake and eat it too.

First, consider the fact that real output not only increased very sluggishly all of last year but actually turned down near the end of 1973. If we look only at the most recent past, there seems to be cause for alarm. But we must remember that from 1961 through 1972, with only a short pause during the 1970 recession, real output grew at a rate well above that which an advanced economy can be expected to sustain—three to four per cent per year. Therefore, a temporary slowing or even a fall in real output has been due for some time. This has happened before and it will happen again. It does not mean the end of the world; it does not mean another 1929. It means only that when the growth rate has been above average for a while, then it is going to be below average for a while (that is what average means); and this is a technological, not an "economic" or "political" average.

But if real output is down (which does explain a rise in unemployment), why do prices continue to climb? Couldn't we reason that a drop in output means a drop in income and hence lower total demand, thus taking some pressure off prices? Ordinarily we could. But let's go back a bit. Consumer prices have been rising for 15 years—yes, 15 years! More specifically, the rate of increase in consumer prices started to speed up in the mid-sixties when we were pouring resources into Vietnam and elsewhere, trying to achieve a "Great Society" at home, and pretending all the while that such large scale transfers to the public sector could be made without any sacrifices in the private sector at all.

The plain unpleasant truth is that if government is going to take a larger share of output, then some other sector must take a smaller share. If the transfer is not made ex-PLICITLY via taxes, it will be made implicitly via price inflation. Why didn't we notice it sooner? For two reasons: Real output was rising at an above average rate; and the money supply was also rising rapidly, enough so that money income was rising faster than the price level and hence most people kept ahead of the game. But this situation could continue only so long as real output rose at an above average rate and this it could not do forever.

It is true that the Federal Reserve tried to slow down the increase in the money supply, and hence in the price level, several times. But each time the pressure generated by the subsequent slow-down in output and increase in unemployment—as well as government deficit financing needs—were too great, the money supply was again rapidly increased. Thus previous price increases were "ratified" and new increases appeared. Wage and price controls were doomed to failure from the start since they were merely a temporary lid which did not get at the real problem: a money supply growing faster than real output.

The inevitable slowing down of the unsustainably high rate of growth in real output is complicated by two additional factors: the genuine "shortage" of low price Middle-Eastern oil, and a worldwide shortage of food due to several bad harvests. Without these two factors, the rate of price increase would have been much lower than the current rate of nearly 12 per cent, though it would have been higher than the three to five per cent level we were able to ignore in the past. But the economy can and will gradually adjust to the changed situation in oil supply, and bad harvests are an unpleasant but obviously temporary phenomenon.

Inflation can be controlled. A firm rein on the money supply, restrained government spending on new projects (obviously unemployment benefits must be maintained) and a little patience should see us through the painful readjustment and rebalancing of our economy.

The real danger is panic, the kind of panic generated by scare headlines and prophets of doom, which can cause the Congress to succumb to the pressures of labor unions, stock brokers, the auto industry, and every other special interest group to switch to stimulatory fiscal policy: more deficit spending which the Federal Reserve must then finance. This is the real danger.

Voice of the people

To the Editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to all the citizens of Lee County for the privilege and honor of serving these past four years in the capacity of Lee County Treasurer.

It has been a challenging experience and one that I have enjoyed meeting and also one that I am most willing and ready to pass on to my successor.

I have tried to the best of my ability to give the best service possible and with the help of the dedicated employees in my office I believe we have been fair and impartial in dealing with the public and made very few enemies.

With a few exceptions, the County Board has been most cooperative and I have enjoyed working with all the other County officers and County employees in all departments.

It is unfortunate that the Lee County Treasurer-elect, Mrs. Thompson chose to conduct a smear campaign against my administration and conduct in office to appeal for votes in the recent election. Her accusations naturally hurt my pride but not my character as I believe my reputation in our community is well enough established to prevent that.

I prepared an article for the "Voice of The People" to defend myself as Lee County Treasurer against Mrs. Thompson's accusations and presented it to Mr. R. Nellis at the Dixon Evening Telegraph office on Oct. 29, and after reading it he said OK. On Oct. 30 he called me and said he couldn't print my article and the reason he gave me was that I was name calling and not specific. I still have the article and I defy anyone to prove that there was any name calling in it.

It has always been my understanding that the column so named "Voice of The People" was just that and should be available to answer accusations such as appeared on the front page of the Dixon Evening Telegraph on Oct. 28, 1974 criticizing my handling of County Funds. In view of the fact that I was not a candidate for office, I felt and still feel Mr. Nellis had no right to judge if my article could be printed or not.

I have confidence in the management of the Dixon Evening Telegraph to give fair and impartial consideration to its subscribers and I am referring this matter to them.

I am sorry to end my article on a note of criticism of the managing editor of the Dixon Evening Telegraph but I believe him to be deserving of it.

Having expressed my feelings in this matter I want to again thank the citizens of Lee County for the privilege of serving them.

Yours truly,

Donald D. Stauffer
Lee County Treasurer

P.S. Gene Strouss, co-editor of the Amboy News and a Democrat, also refused to print my article without reason.

Robert Dean, editor of the Ashton Gazette, graciously printed the article.

Benefits won't cure economy

By DON OAKLEY

The automobile industry is not in a recession, said a United Auto Workers official the other day. "It's in a depression."

The remark came on the heels of the layoff of 22,525 Chrysler employees and before the announcement by General Motors that it was closing three small car assembly plants. The industry-wide total of temporarily or permanently idled workers has passed 70,000 and continues to climb.

If the ripple effects of slashed automobile production have not yet developed into a tide sweeping through the economy—one of every seven jobs is connected with the fortunes of the auto industry in some way—and if panic has not set in among the unemployed workers and the communities dependent upon the auto companies' payrolls, the major reason is a system of company-paid supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) won by the UAW back in the 1950s.

Combined with state unemployment compensation, SUB can give an experienced worker up to 95 per cent of his normal after-tax income for up to a year. For workers laid off since automobile sales began nosediving last winter, this has meant—so far—the difference between difficult times and real trouble, and for the country—so far—the difference between a recession and a full-scale depression.

What is becoming cause for concern, however, is the fact that nearly half the currently unemployed in the auto industry have already been off the job for some time, some were laid off as long ago as last January. These workers are nearing the end of their special layoff benefits, as well as state unemployment.

A drug problem solution

By CHARLES DENSFORD

We Americans have a peculiar quirk of national personality that impels us to blame somebody else for the troubles we bring on ourselves. By looking for scapegoats, we divert our attention from the root causes of our problems. We are currently in a hassle with the Turkish government, trying to stop the Turkish farmers from debauching our young people by growing poppies. This is just another example of our reluctance to accept the responsibility for the consequences of our own misbehavior.

Our crazy drivers careen along on freeways and superhighways, crashing into each other, smashing into unyielding posts and abutments, "losing control of the vehicle," and rolling their cars into twisted balls of metal and meat. To reduce the carnage caused by the operators, we demand that Detroit build safer cars. But it is impossible for automakers to make a car that can withstand the crazy driving of a fool. We must work on the drivers, not the cars!

Our violence-prone citizens kill each other by the thousands with a variety of weapons. To stem the blood-tide, we enact laws that inhibit the purchase and possession of handguns by law-abiding citizens while criminals, professional and amateur, go right on killing in blithe disregard of those laws. We must work on the people who kill or maim others, not on the weapons they use!

We should have taken the advice of our military men, knocked out the North Vietnam aggressor's ability to wage war by cutting off his supplies, destroying his ports, railroads and factories. We could have won the war in six months at any time during the 10 years. But we didn't face up to the real cause of the war and deal with it forthrightly.

An example of our failure to face up to facts is our method of dealing with the traffic in dangerous drugs. Our people, from young adults down to pre-teen-agers, ruin their irreplaceable bodies with drugs of progressive virulence, in search of thrills, in rebellion, to follow the leader, and "just for the hell of it." We express horror at such debauchery and declare war on national and international pushers, but we pay only superficial attention to how and why the children were debauched in the first place.

Of all the sources of hard drugs, we pick out Turkey and pay that nation's farmers millions of dollars not to grow poppies. But we ignore one simple, basic truth that would solve the problem conclusively and permanently: if people didn't use the drugs, there would not be any drug traffic.

We ought to be facing up to the obvious fact that we must deal with the addicts and potential addicts if we want to wipe out the scourge.

One program, difficult but not impossible, would solve this distressing problem: Require parents to supervise and instruct their children so carefully and thoroughly that they will not become addicts. Somehow, parents must be taught that it is shameful to let children become addicts!

As it seems to me, there is not the slightest chance that any other approach to this problem can be successful. We could pay twice the subsidy to Turkish farmers not to grow poppies, but opium and its derivatives would still come into the United States. We could keep on arresting pushers, but for every one eliminated, two more will appear, as long as there are cash customers for the product. We can put all the Mafia in jail, but the heroin empires will still function, directed by new pushers still free to go their ghoulish way. As long as there are addicts to buy what the pusher sells, there will be a flourishing business for such merchants of misery.

Only by eliminating the people who buy and use drugs—the addicts—can this frightful plague be stopped. Once the purchaser becomes nonexistent, the producers and pushers could have tons of the foul stuff available on every street corner, but they cannot sell it without customers.

We might as well get off the back of the "Terrible Turk" and get on the back of the addict and his parents. There is where we shall find both the cause and the solution to our drug problem.

Is gap closing?

The so-called generation gap is much overrated.

So says Gisela Konopka, professor of social work at the University of Minnesota and director of the university's Center for Youth Development and Research.

The barriers that do exist between young and old are primarily artificial, she argues, and fear is the main reason for their existence.

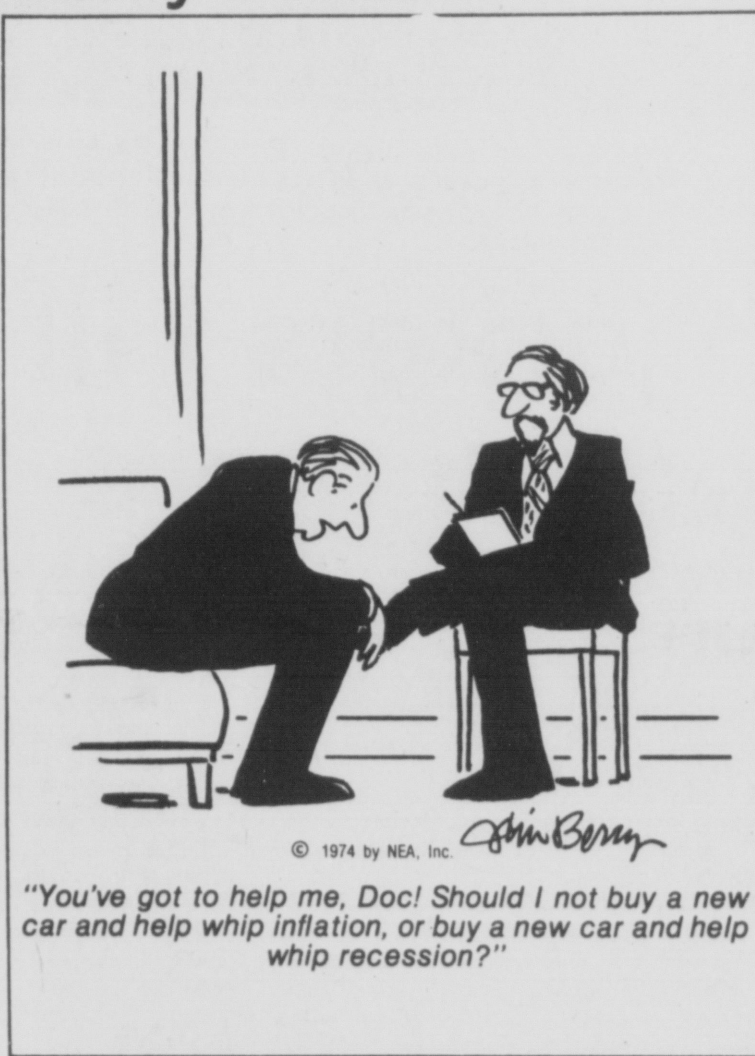

There is fear of the unknown and fear of change, aided and abetted by the repetition of catch phrases like "generation gap," "breakdown of the family," "future shock" and "permissiveness."

Families today may actually be moving toward closer relationships as they become more democratic, she thinks. Fast and easy transportation and communication allow physically separated families to get together often. Rather than destroying the family, increased mobility may be recreating the pattern of the neighborhood family.

The new family relationship is not "permissive" in the sense that one can always do what one wants. Rather, it means that adults must consciously share their value systems with the young and expect challenging and questioning. Young people in turn have to think through their value systems.

"We cannot always build agreement," says Prof. Konopka, "but we must try to build trust."

Berry's World

Bureaucracy, inflation

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A few days ago I received a phone call from a friend who is president of a small high-technology firm, the type economists say must be encouraged if we are to meet increasing worldwide competition and keep this nation's head financially above water.

My friend should have been happy. Sales are booming. He has more business than he can handle. Prospects for next year look even better. Buyers from this country and abroad are beating a path to his door and he has been able to secure the working capital he needs at fairly reasonable rates.

But this small manufacturer fears he may go broke any month and there's absolutely nothing he can do to guard against such a calamity. If he were the nervous type, he would have a breakdown.

The problem is that, as with many firms which do business with the government or whose exports must be okayed, the company must deal with bureaucrats the firm's officers do not know or even see and whose operating methods are hidden. The standards these officials set and the criteria by which they reach their decisions are unknown.

This particular executive lives in fear that one of these faceless bureaucrats will lose an application and he won't know it. They've sometimes been mislaid for weeks. Officials explained the delay by reporting that the decision on his case was such an agonizing one, it could not be hurried. It was only by accident he learned that, in reality, no one could find the papers.

My friend worries even more that some minor official in the back rooms of the vast State Department will make an arbitrary decision based on a triviality, or that some competitor will get to one of the links in the chain of approvals each application must go through. For a small firm, such as the one we are dealing with here, this could mean ruin. It would take weeks to track down who blackballed the action since, from week to week and month to month, behind-the-scenes officials change. So many bureaucrats are in the chain of decision that tracking papers through the labyrinth takes an artist. Even then, it could take weeks more to learn why a decision was negative. My friend, and others in like positions, have found the middle-level bureaucracy awash with "cover" stories so plausible it is almost impossible to find the actual rationale for any particular decision, especially one that is challenged.

But suppose my friend persists and brings his case to whatever tribunals hear appeals. Where these courts are, who composes them, and how they operate is also something of a mystery to most businessmen who must deal with the government. As frequently as not, there is no appeal, except to the men who make the decision or to their superiors.

Suppose, however, my friend waits for his day in court, presents his case, wins, then waits for the inevitable government appeals? By this time, win or lose, he will have expended so much time and money and lost so much business that he may as well close shop.

If this were an isolated case, this example would have little meaning. Alas, in talking with one businessman or another who must deal with the government, the story is the same. The president of one of this country's larger companies says that he must deal regularly with 26 officials on just one aspect of his business. Apparently none of them has any authority and that much of the time, they do not agree with each other on what his company can or should do. No wonder there is stagnation.

Teen-age runaway problem at high in United States

The teen-age runaway problem is at an unprecedented high for peace time United States. Now, 600,000 to one million American teens run away every year and they're running away earlier and earlier, as young as 12 years old. Half, or possibly more than half, are girls.

These are the observations of Dr. Helm Stierlin, acting chief of the Families Study Section at the Adult Psychiatry Branch of the National Institute of Mental Health. He is also an associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Maryland.

"It's a very complicated scenario which we encounter," said Dr. Stierlin. "We have a society which makes running away possible. It's a very mobile society with an enormous amount of uprooting and unsettling going on. The average family moves every five years, for example."

"Also, there's affluence, which means the runaways won't starve. And there's a breakdown of the cohesiveness of society, which ties in with the mobility," said Dr. Stierlin.

"There are basically two reasons why teenagers run away," Dr. Stierlin contended. "They either run away because for one reason or another they do not like it at home, or because somehow the outside world is more exciting, more tempting, more rewarding."

"Most of the runaways do return home, because they still have very strong psychological ties to their families. These strong ties, paradoxically, may have caused the teenager to run. They find family life so squelching, so immensely charged with ambivalence, that running away is the only solution to get some relief.

"The other group, the group that doesn't return, feel, so neglected, so unwanted, are so coldly treated by their families that almost anything looks better than what they have at home," said Dr. Stierlin. "They're more or less drift-aways who have given up on their parents and society."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor George Maharis and a male hairdresser have been arrested for investigation of sexual perversion, police said.

Maharis, who starred in the defunct television series "Route 66," and Perfecto Telles were arrested at a service station Tuesday afternoon, police said Thursday. Maharis was observed by officers who had staked out the station's restroom, police said.

Maharis, 46, and Telles, 33, were released after posting $500 bail. They will be arraigned Nov. 26 in West Los Angeles Municipal Court.

NEW YORK (AP) — Valery and Galina Panov, the ballet dancers who emigrated to Israel after a two-year struggle to leave the Soviet Union, have arrived here for a dance tour of the United States.

"We are filled with admiration and delight at being in this country," Panov said Thursday night as he and his wife received a warm welcome at Kennedy Airport.

Panov, a Jew, was dismissed from Leningrad's Kirov Ballet after he applied for permission to emigrate to Israel in 1972. Galina, who is not Jewish, was demoted and eventually dropped from the company.

PARIS (AP) — Kenneth Rush, the new ambassador to France, has presented his credentials to President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing. Rush, who succeeds John Irwin III, met with Giscard d'Estaing on Thursday.

MOSCOW (AP) — Physicist Andrei Sakharov, a leader of Soviet dissidents, says the government has refused to grant visas to his stepdaughter and her husband so they can study in the United States.

Tatyana Semyonova and her husband, Yefrem Yankelevich, have been invited to study at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They applied for visas 20 months ago.

Sakharov said Thursday he thought the refusal was a device to put pressure on him.

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Lithuanian-born Simas Kudirka has been invited to visit the U.S. Coast Guard cutter where he made a desperate bid for freedom that got him 45 months in Soviet prisons.

For Sunday, Nov. 24, 1974

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Proceed with your plans rather than debate them prematurely with another. When events unwind they'll prove you had the right slant on things.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will be tempted to shift a little too much of your personal burden onto the shoulders of one who is trying to be helpful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This should be a fun day for you provided you don't make too late an evening of it. If socializing, say your good-night early.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Certain advantages gained today can be lost or diluted if you exert too much pressure. Know when to stop selling.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep your conversations with your friends and acquaintances light and airy today. A deep discussion could become a heated argument.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not a good day for you and your mate to review household expenditures. In fact, try not to bring up money matters at all.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll be easy to get along with today, if everyone goes along with your ideas. You won't respond congenially to wishes of others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll want to spend some money on things you'd like to have repaired. That's OK provided those funds aren't earmarked for something else.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're entertaining, it won't go off as smoothly as you'd like if you permit others to bring additional guests you don't know.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try not to bring outsiders into matters at this time that are personal to you and your family. It could be asking for trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you'll find you'll enjoy the company of your newer friends more than mixing with old pals.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's a little warning for you at this time: Be sure you honor your old obligations. Be mindful of those who have helped you.

Nov. 24, 1974

This year will be a very active one socially. Also, creative ventures you turn your hand to have an excellent chance for success and acclaim.

WESTAR II, the second half of America's first domestic communications satellite system launched in April (left), now relays telegram and mailgram messages, conversations, data, graphics and television broadcasts to any point in the continental United States via stations located in New York, Chicago, Atlanta, Dallas and Los Angeles—an 8,000-mile terrestrial microwave system. Launched last month, Westar II can transmit messages at the rate of eight million words per second. The first mailgrams relayed through space via the completed Westar system are examined (right) by William Dunlap, Assistant Postmaster General (left), and Earl D. Hillburn, president of Western Union. The new system is jointly operated by Western Union and the U.S. Postal Service.

Flank steak and vegetable stew

By AILEEN CLAIRE
Although flank steak is no longer the most inexpensive of beef cuts, it still is a lean cut that stretches to serve several persons. For a different beef stew, roll a beef flank steak around a layer of fresh herbs, onion and bacon. Simmer slowly until done and combine cooked vegetables with sliced steak for a different beef stew.

PINWHEEL FLANK STEAK
1 beef flank steak
1 cup finely chopped parsley
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 thick slices bacon, chopped
2 tablespoons cooking oil
2 (14-ounce) cans beef broth
1 teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
1/4 cup celery leaves
Choice of vegetables+

Lay the steak flat on cutting board. Mix parsley, onion and uncooked bacon. Spread over steak, roll jelly roll fashion and fasten with skewers securely. Cut roll into 2 pieces. Brown in oil in large soup pot. Add broth, salt, bay leaf and celery leaves. Cover. Simmer 50 minutes or until tender. Skim off fat. Meanwhile cook vegetables in boiling salted water until barely tender. Remove beef from broth and cut into slices. Arrange beef pinwheels in casserole or individual bowls with vegetables. Heat broth to boiling. Pour over beef and vegetables. Makes 6 servings.

+Small unpeeled potatoes, onions, carrot strips, green beans or other vegetables.
(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

A tasty and nutritious stew.

Association sponsors art show

The Rock River Valley Art Association's annual show was held Saturday and Sunday at the Northland Mall, Sterling, and was arranged by Mrs. Jonnie Galasso, Rock Falls, president of the association, and Charles Waganecht, Northland Mall.

The show included paintings in all media, pottery, decoupage and leather tooling demonstrations and portrait sketching.

Entries in the art show were judged by Mrs. Geneva Hill, Galesburg, first; Mildred Douglas and Karen Vroman, Erie, second and third. Marie Siek, Dixon, won first place in the realistic acrylics, and Frances Dempsey, Polo, was awarded second place. ## Dear Ann by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed several letters over the years about inconsiderate neighbors who might be deaf because they don't seem to hear their dog barking all night. I had the same problem and finally solved it. Maybe you'd like to pass the word to others who are similarly plagued?

Last week my wife and I were up till 3:00 a.m. because of our neighbor's barking dog. It was driving us out of our minds. We got out of bed, drove our car out of the garage and parked in the driveway, between our house and our neighbors. We took turns leaning on the horn for 15 minutes straight. The neighbors came out and yelled, "are you crazy?" I yelled back, "Your dog makes just as much noise every darned night."

With that they whistled for the mutt. He came running and we haven't had any trouble since.—Peace—It's Beautiful

Dear Peace: You're lucky the other neighbors didn't call the police.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine wrote an essay. She called it "Love Or Infatuation?" I hope you'll print it for all the teenagers (and many adults) who are grappling with the problem. —Oakland Reader you look up. It makes you think up. It makes you a better person than you were before — Know The Difference

Dear Reader: Beautiful. Thanks for sharing.

Dear Ann Landers: My job is endangered because I don't know how to deal with my wife's irresponsible spending. She refuses to admit she can't handle a checking account, although every month she is overdrawn.

We fight about this constantly. I can't live with debt. I think she needs professional help because she's a compulsive spender. She won't go. Can you help? —Trusting In You

Dear Trusting: Make an appointment with the person in your bank who counsels clients. He will tell you both what needs to be done — and how. If an "authority" says she must live on an allowance and all charge accounts must be closed, she might listen. If she refuses to go, go alone and follow the banker's instructions — no matter what.

When buying clothes, check the labels and try to stick with washable items, as much as possible. In drycleanables, choose dark or muted colors.

Love or Infatuation?
INFATUATION leaps into bloom. LOVE usually takes root slowly and grows with time.

INFATUATION is accompanied by a sense of uncertainty. You are stimulated and thrilled but not really happy. You are miserable when he is absent. You can't wait until you see him again.

LOVE begins with a feeling of security. You are warm with a sense of his nearness, even when he is away. Miles do not separate you. You want him near, but near or far, you know he's yours and you can wait.

INFATUATION says, "We must get married right away. I can't risk losing him." LOVE says, "Don't rush into anything." You are sure of one another. You can plan your future with confidence.

INFATUATION has an element of sexual excitement. If you are honest, you will discover that it is difficult to enjoy one another unless you know it will end in intimacy.

LOVE is the maturation of friendship. You must be friends before you can be lovers.

INFATUATION lacks confidence. When he's away you wonder if he's with another girl. Sometimes you even check to make sure.

LOVE means trust. You may fall into INFATUATION, but you never fall in love. Infatuation might lead you to do things for which you might be sorry, but LOVE never will. LOVE leads you up. It makes

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY: One night I left my sliding glass doors open. Rain came in on an end table with a lamp on it. I dried the table and then set the lamp back on it not realizing the felt on the lamp bottom was damp. The felt dye stained the table. I wonder if someone could tell me how to remove this stain?—MRS. A. H.

DEAR POLLY: My Pet Peeve is with leaking milk cartons. I can understand an occasional one but I have been averaging one leaking one out of every four cartons.—MRS. S. N.

DEAR POLLY: I would like for Mrs. A. L. to know that I have found that wax shoe polish of the proper color does a fine job of removing scratches from furniture and puts on a nice finish. I also find this good for paneled walls and wood floors. Apply with a cloth or cotton swab and polish well with another cloth.—BERTHA.

DEAR POLLY: So many of the readers like J. N. seem plagued with that problem of pet odors. I have cured some beauties with a good STRONG solution of plain old baking soda in water. The only trick is to be sure that all the soda dissolves and that the solution sinks in as deeply as the original odor producer.

Also when coming home from the beach with sand-covered legs and feet a big problem is practically eliminated if you have along a can of baby powder. Shake a healthy amount of powder on the kids' feet and legs and you can brush the sand off in seconds and even put their shoes on. Sure helps keep the car clean.—J. L.

DEAR POLLY: The best way I have found to get rid of a lingering odor in baby's diaper pail is to use a crystal-type toilet bowl deodorant. The pail smells nicer. This is usually less expensive than the diaper pail deodorants found at the store and that do not work as well either. This type deodorant works wonders on garbage pails.—MRS. R. L. H.

Know Christmas card etiquette

As soon as Thanksgiving is over, begin to make out your Christmas cards. An early start reduces tension and insures that your friends and relatives will receive your card before Christmas.

For proper Christmas card etiquette, follow these suggested points of courtesy from University of Illinois Extension family life specialist, Clareta Walker.

Even if you had your cards printed or engraved, you should personally sign any cards you're sending to relatives or close friends.

When signing a printed or engraved card, the wife's name comes first — "Jane and Jim Brown."

List children's names separately after Dad and Mother's name to properly include them in the signature.

Unless a person with a title is your close friend, always address the card with the title — "Doctor and Mrs. John E. Jones."

During periods of mourning, it's proper to send Christmas cards. After a recent death, select your card with care. Avoid "Merry Christmas" and send one with "Season's Greetings."

The display of Christmas cards on walls and mirrors adds a festive note to your decor. It flatters the sender, conveys how much you enjoy receiving cards, and it's proper.

You need not send a Christmas card for everyone that you receive. Still, always return a Christmas card to a person you love, respect, and admire. In addition, return a card to anyone whose friendship you wish to cultivate.

Moron makes point the hard way

By Oswald & James Jacoby
"Pretty nice end play wasn't it?" chortled South.
"Wonderful, for a moron," replied North.

We think that North was rather severe in his reply, but South had overlooked an automatic correct play at trick two. He had been forced to end-play West to make his notrump game.

At trick two South had led his deuce of hearts. Dummy's jack lost to East's ace and a spade return had set up four tricks for West. South led the eight of hearts to dummy's queen. When East showed out, the nine of hearts that South was still holding blocked his chance to run the rest of the suit.

South thought a while and cashed his three high diamonds. West had to chuck two spades to keep heart and club protection, whereupon South led a heart to dummy's king; threw West in and made the last two tricks and his contract with clubs.

All this was made necessary because South had not learned the automatic unblock with the sort of heart spotcard holding he had been dealt. If he had learned it, his first heart play would have been the nine; the second the eight and the third heart from his hand would be the deuce. In this way he would find that East was out of hearts on the second lead; return to his hand with a diamond; lead the deuce; finesse the 10 with the seven and then drop the 10 with his jack.

Jellied salad with dressing

For a jellied salad that won't make any real dent in the food budget, you can use canned beets as the base with a little aromatic bitters added for pizzazz. This salad looks attractive, serves eight or nine and is delicious offered with its easy-to-prepare creamy dressing.

JELLIED BEET SALAD
1-pound can diced beets
1 envelope plus 1 1/2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1/4 cup distilled white vinegar
1/4 cup minced onion
1 tablespoon aromatic bitters
Salad greens
Small onion rings
Horseradish Dressing.
(see below)

Drain beets and reserve. Add enough cold water to the beet juice to make 1 3/4 cups; pour into a medium saucepan; sprinkle with the gelatin and allow to soften — about 5 minutes; add the bouillon cubes; stir over low heat until gelatin and cubes are dissolved. Remove from heat. Stir in 1 cup cold water, the vinegar, onion and bitters; chill until slightly thickened, stirring several times. Fold in beets. Turn into a 5-cup mold or nine 1/2 cup molds or custard cups. Chill until firm. Unmold by dipping into lukewarm water and surround with salad greens; if desired garnish with small onion rings. Serve with Horseradish Dressing. Makes 8 or 9 servings.

Horseradish Dressing: Stir together 1/2 pint commercial sour cream, 2 tablespoons undrained white or red bottled horseradish and salt to taste.

Beautyrest has more than twice the usual number of coils. That means more support. And sleepers have a choice of five Beautyrest firmnesses. That means there's one just right for you. But firmness alone doesn't guarantee proper body support.

That's why Beautyrest is made flexibly firm, not hard and support only that part of your body they're under. Hip coils support hips. Shoulder coils support shoulders, while others firm-up and support your back or sides. Beautyrest is different because it conforms — and so comfortably. ## Inflation rate shows signs of cooling off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The slowdown in the nation's economy seems finally to be cooling the rate of inflation, the latest government figures show.

Although most prices continue to rise, there is a definite easing in the rate of price increases for industrial commodities and non-food consumer items. And some other prices actually show signs of declining.

However, public perception of this phenomenon may be blurred somewhat by a decrease in the individual's real spending power.

The government's Consumer Price Index released Thursday showed that prices of non-food consumer goods increased six-tenths of one per cent in October, the second consecutive monthly slowdown in the rate of rise and the lowest increase since last December.

There were actual declines during the month — on a seasonally adjusted basis — in prices of women's and girl's apparel and in gasoline and motor oil.

The Wholesale Price Index last week showed a 1.1 per cent increase in wholesale prices of industrial commodities during October, which was less than half the rate of increase during most of the previous nine months.

All this does not mean a general decline in prices is around the corner, but government economists say future increases will be smaller and less painful to consumers.

One economist with the President's Council of Economic Advisors also cautioned Thursday that the rate of increase could pick up again in months ahead.

But there was general agreement the size of price rises will be down.

The cost of this slight improvement in inflation has been high, especially in terms of lost jobs.

Virtually everybody, including President Ford, says the nation either is in a recession or entering one. The nation's jobless rate hit 6 per cent in October and is certain to rise higher because of widespread layoffs in the auto industry and Higher wheat prices once more are becoming factors in how much consumers pay for bread, although middleman charges account for most of the cost increase, according to the latest government figures.

The retail price of a one-pound loaf of bread in October averaged a record 35.6 cents nationally, up eight-tenths of a cent from September, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said Thursday.

Figures by the Agriculture Department show the farm price of wheat also went up sharply last month to $4.85 a bushel from $4.32 in September. The record wheat price, was $5.52 a bushel last February.

Although officials said an analysis of what contributed most to the October bread price increase will not be ready for another month or so.

Waukegan family lives in glass house

Waukegan, Ill. (AP) — You can look in on the Legat family anytime. They live in a glass house.

Joan Legat says, "More than 500 persons drive by every week to look at the house and Saturdays and Sundays are picture days with cameras pointing at us from all directions. Still I wouldn't give up our fish bowl lifestyle for anything — we can always draw a few sling shades."

Her architect husband, Joe, had the extraordinary dwelling put together on a timbered hillside of an old estate in the middle of downtown Waukegan.

The master bedroom unit is on an axis and has a twisting flexibility that makes it sway gently in the wind.

"It's about the same sensation as being on a boat," said Legat. "Supplementing it all is our bed which is supported solely by four big springs."

The Legats have to be careful of what they wear, or don't wear, when they roam from the bedroom. The only link between it and the main levels is a circular staircase 60 feet high enclosed by glass.

"Now when I get up and get dressed I leave the bedroom for the day — no wandering around on a lazy morning in pajamas," Legat said. "I like it — it makes you get going faster. Living in the house is great and if I had it to do all over again I'd use even more glass."

He constructed six rectangular modules of glass and plywood coated with urethane in the backyard of his former home and trucked them to the new site. The modules were joined on top of six steel pillars, forming a modified L-shape partly overhanging a ravine.

The modules jut out from the circular stairway in the glass tube.

In the five-level arrangement the modules spill into each other to form various living areas, including two bedrooms for the Legats, two children and the master bedroom on the upper level. Standing in the middle of the main hallway, protruding through floor and ceiling, is a massive oak tree.

Legat, 37, said the home was budgeted at $35,000. He figures the total cost will be below $75,000 when a swimming pool, tennis court, putting green and fish pond are completed.

"The modular design plus use of inexpensive materials kept costs down," he said. "The house is gimmicky but we live in a gimmicky world."

Each module has its own electric heating and cooling unit, and in winter, with the trees barren, the sun provides solar heat gain.

Interior walls are carpeted, papered or painted and carpeting also insulates the ceilings.

In place of a central chimney there are Pyrex glass tubes that allow fireside sitters to watch the smoke curl upward. "The only thing is, I don't think Santa will be able to get down it this Christmas," Legat said.

State Senate okays tax break for elderly

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Senate has passed a tax relief program for the elderly despite warnings by some legislators that it may contribute to a future tax increase.

The measure, approved 43 to 3 Friday, would benefit elderly homeowners and renters who have an annual household income of $10,000 or less.

The program now goes back to the House, which approved it once before, for a vote on Senate alterations.

Both houses adjourned Friday until Dec. 4. Before the lawmakers headed home:

—The Senate upheld a Walker veto of a bill to require a study of the economic impact of all existing and future environmental laws.

—The House and Senate upheld vetoes that reduced pay raises passed by the legislature for state police and for employees at the University of Illinois and the five schools under the Board of Governors.

—The House approved and sent to the governor a bill to raise the minimum salary that must be paid to county officials such as coroner, sheriff, clerk, recorder and auditor.

Walker has refused to say whether he will approve the tax relief grants, the estimated cost of which varies from $38 million to $46 million. He said he has not determined whether the state can afford it.

Both houses of the legislature are overriding vetoes Walker said were needed to hold the line on spending.

"Instead of giving tax breaks to senior citizens, you will be giving them a tax increase," said Sen. John J. Nimrod, R-Skokie, who cast one of the three negative votes.

One part of the plan would provide an estimated 20 per cent increase in the grants given to renters under the so-called circuit breaker tax relief program for the elderly.

The other part, a cash grant plan backed by Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan, would provide varying amounts, for example, $40 for those with a household income of $1,000, $75 for those with an income of $5,000, and $90 for those with an income of $9,000.

A motion to override the veto of the environmental economic impact bill received 27 of the 36 votes needed.

The opponents contended that such economic impact evaluations had already been completed when the environmental laws were passed. The also said an override of Walker's veto might place existing environmental laws in limbo and jeopardize the receipt of federal anti-pollution funds.

The Senate mustered only 26 votes of the 30 needed to restore a $100-a-month pay raise for some 1,700 Illinois state police officers. Walker had reduced the raise to $50 a month.

At the same time, the House sustained Walker's cut from 8 per cent to 5 per cent in a cost of living pay increase for University of Illinois and Board of Governors universities employees.

Similar cuts were made by Walker in pay hikes passed for employees of other state universities, but those measures were not considered Friday.

Also deferred was action by the Senate on bills to raise the salaries of legislators, judges and Walker cabinet members. Sponsors had said they would call the bills for a vote this week.

The measure changing the minimum salary for county officials would cost local governments throughout the state an estimated $462,200, according to figures supplied by the Illinois Association of County Clerks and Records.

If signed by Walker, the bill would raise the minimum by $3,500 in counties with populations of less than 14,000 and by $4,000 in all other counties.

According to the association, all of the state's counties would have to raise their officials' salaries except Cook, Bureau, Champaign, DeKalb, DuPage, Kane, Kankakee, Lake, Madison, McHenry, Monroe, Peoria, Sangamon, St. Clair, Vermilion, Will, Winnebago and Woodford.

The present minimum salaries range from $8,500 in counties with populations under 14,000 to $16,000 in those with populations of 300,000 to one million.

In other action:

—The Senate, overriding a Walker veto, approved legislation requiring the governor to submit his new highway construction program by the first week of April each year. The current deadline is July 1, and legislators complained this did not give them time to consider highway appropriations by the scheduled adjournment of the General Assembly on June 30. The measure now goes to the House.

—The Senate withdrew a series of bills regulating the restoration of strip-mined land from consideration by the Agriculture, Conservation and Ecology Committee and quickly moved them to the final passage stage.

—The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill appropriating $200,000 for a feasibility study of a proposed tollway in the Fox River Valley.

Crack-down on poachers being stepped up

SPRINGFIELD—Conservation police officers have made several arrests in a continuing crack-down on game poachers this fall.

Increased surveillance and night patrols are being used throughout Illinois in a stepped-up effort to stop the illegal taking of game, said Tony Dean, director of the Department of Conservation. In addition to the patrols, department law enforcement personnel are using airplanes to spot poachers and relay their positions to officers on the ground.

At least five men have been arrested in two instances of illegal killing or possession of deer and raccoon, in northwest Illinois. Four were fined and the fifth faces a possible fine of up to $500 and/or confinement of up to six months.

Four of them—Barry Spillane, Robert and Tim Sproule, and Robert Berning, all of Galena—were arrested for illegal possession of game early in October when Galena Police stopped their car on a routine traffic violation and found two deer and two raccoons in the trunk. Conservation police officers Edward Freeman and Raymond Miller were summoned, took the four men into custody and confiscated their weapons, car and the dead animals.

All four posted $1,000 bond, were later found guilty and fined a total of $1,204 in court in Jo Daviess County. The confiscated guns were ordered held by the court for a year; the automobile was returned.

In another incident conservation police officers, acting on a tip, arrested a Byron man for killing a deer out of season. Officers John Ocker and Jerry LaShelle investigated a complaint that a man was seen dragging a dead deer into a barn. They secured permission to enter the barn, found blood spots leading to the basement where deer entrails and a fresh deer skin were buried in straw. Further investigation turned up freshly killed venison in a freezer. The offender posted bail and is awaiting a court appearance.

"The poacher is a thief," said Dean. "He is stealing a resource that belongs to all citizens of the state, and we are making every possible effort to put a stop to it."

Citizens are urged to report any knowledge of illegal hunting to a regional conservation police office, or to contact a conservation police officer.

Divorce requirement ruled unconstitutional

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A Circuit Court judge has ruled unconstitutional an Illinois residency requirement for persons filing for divorce.

Judge Frederick Green ruled Friday that the law violated the right to due process and equal protection clauses of the state and U.S. Constitutions.

He also said the law violated a clause of the Illinois Constitution that guarantees residents the right to "remedy and justice."

The ruling came in a divorce suit filed this month by Karen Backus of Fisher, who had lived in Illinois for five months.

The law required that she must live in Illinois for six months before filing, since grounds for the divorce occurred in Illinois. When grounds for divorce occur outside the state, the law requires a year residency.

Her lawyer, John Phipps, said, "What if (the law) in effect did was deny her access to the courts for six months."

Another state law prohibiting the sale of hard liquor within 1,500 feet of a university campus was struck down Thursday.

Percy survey shows inflation top issue

CHICAGO—Inflation was the major concern of Illinois voters last election day, according to a survey taken by Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

The survey, Percy said, measured voters' attitudes toward public officials and such issues as inflation, crime and integrity in government, and were collected on Nov. 6, the day after the election.

Of the 1,051 voters who responded to the post election questionnaire, 54 per cent indicated they were concerned most about the nation's economic condition. The remaining 47 per cent indicated the following issues as their major concerns:

Honesty and Integrity in Government, 23 per cent; Unemployment, 18 per cent; Crime and Public Safety, 4 per cent; Other, 2 per cent.

"Poor economic conditions, combined with recent political events, have eroded the public's faith in government officials," Percy said. Sixty-eight per cent of those who answered the questionnaire viewed politicians unfavorably. Sixty per cent were critical of all public officials.

The reasons for the adverse reaction to officials were checked as follows:

Inflation 30 per cent, Watergate 30 per cent, Cynicism 22 per cent, Crime 2 per cent, and Other 15 per cent.

Chicago commuters were the largest group polled by the survey. Of the 1051 questionnaires tabulated, 622 were collected from passengers riding various Chicago and North-Western Railway and CTA lines. One hundred ninety-three of responses came from questionnaires distributed in Springfield; 125 came from Peoria; 111 from Rockford.

Of those polled, 98 per cent said they have not changed their party affiliation the last two years. The breakdown of party identification was as follows:

Favor neither political party, 41 per cent; Republicans, 36 per cent, and Democrats, 23 per cent.

"Those elected in this year's election received a negative mandate from voters," Percy CAMBODIAN President Lon Nol is reported to be deeply concerned over published allegations that commitments were made last year without his knowledge by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to North Vietnamese negotiators involving Cambodian defense measures.

Bulls nip Sonics in game marred by fight

SEATTLE (AP) — Chicago Coach Dick Motta said Seattle had the advantage because the fans were so "hyped up," but his Bulls paid no attention as they nipped the SuperSonics 93-89 in a National Basketball Association game.

The Friday night contest featured a bench-clearing scuffle between Seattle rookie Tom Burleson and veteran Nate Thurmond.

"It was the best game Burleson has played," said Sonics Coach Bill Russell. He referred not to his player's fighting ability, but to the North Carolina State star's 16 points, eight rebounds, three assists and checking of Thurmond that helped hold the Chicago center to six points on three of 12 attempts from the field.

The fight broke out in the first seconds of the third period after Seattle had come back from a 25-13 first-quarter deficit to move in front 66-63. Spencer Haywood scored 16 of his game-high 32 points in the period.

"Nothing would have happened if Thurmond hadn't grabbed me," said Burleson. The grab came after the 7-foot-2 Burleson had run into 6-foot-1 Norm Van Lier, knocking him to the floor.

"I was trying to be a peacemaker until I got an elbow in the side of the head," Thurmond said.

"Fighting is not a part of the game," said Russell. "Nate was trying to stop the fight until he got hit by an elbow."

Although the Sonics, cheered on by the largest home crowd in their history—14,082—moved into a 71-65 lead in the fourth quarter, the Bulls refused to die. John Block and Van Lier, each of whom scored 24 points, led the charge that carried the Bulls to a 75-75 deadlock.

A 15-footer by Block gave Chicago a 91-87 lead with seven seconds left and a Burleson stuffer of an inbound pass was countered by Van Lier's two free throws.

Russell cited two reasons for Seattle's loss—its first at home in the last four outings: miserable free-throw shooting in which the Sonics convert only seven of 17 chances, and Block.

"Block killed us. That last shot was tough—the kind you want them to take, but he made it and that's the difference," Russell said.

4A remarks irk coach of West Chicago team

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Don't call West Chicago's Wildcats a class 4A team playing class 3A ball—at least not in front of coach Paul Unruh.

"It fires me up when I hear that," said Unruh, whose Wildcats completely dominated Mount Carmel 32-0 Friday to win the Class 3A Illinois high school football championship.

"I don't like it," he said. "It distracts from the effort our players put in. Everybody we play outweighs us, but we don't cry about it."

Nevertheless, West Chicago will be playing Class 4A next year, since the Wildcats are switching from the Little Seven Conference to the DuPage County Conference.

through again. His touchdown run sealed it."

Bushell, who gained 131 yards in 20 carries, burst for his 58-yard touchdown run after Alexis had cut St. Teresa's lead to 7-6 on Mike McKeague's second field goal.

"Yes, we were thinking of a 9-7 victory," said Alexis coach John Elder. "I'd have let Mike kick one from as far away as 50 yards with the wind at our back."

Jim Braksick was the big man in Flanagan's victory. Braksick went two yards for the touchdown that put Flanagan ahead to stay after setting it up with a 37-yard pass to Gregg Gundy. He also intercepted two passes.

But Braksick, who claims he's a better basketball player, came through with the clincher with an 81-yard punt in the closing minutes to blunt any Trojan hope of a comeback.

"No, we've never been behind this season," said Triopia Coach Don Kemp. "Still, we had a chance to win the game in the final minutes. But that punt put us back and made it very difficult."

Flanagan Coach Roger Zehr called it "a game of punting and defense. Jim's punting also helped us beat Genoa. Most people think of us as an offensive team, but our strength is defense. The defense kept giving us good field position. And there was no question about our punting."

Mom Barnes is upset

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvin Barnes, the free spirit of the Spirits of St. Louis, is about to catch it from his mother and his agent.

Lula Barnes is "very upset" about his sudden departure from the American Basketball Association team. She told The Associated Press Friday night that she would have a word or two with her son and that he was heading home to Providence, R.I., for the chat.

The Spirits' $2-million bonus baby, unhappy with his contract and irked at some fines, bolted the team Wednesday to attend a billiard tournament in Dayton, Ohio.

His mother said Barnes left for home Friday with a stopover in New York to talk to a lawyer.

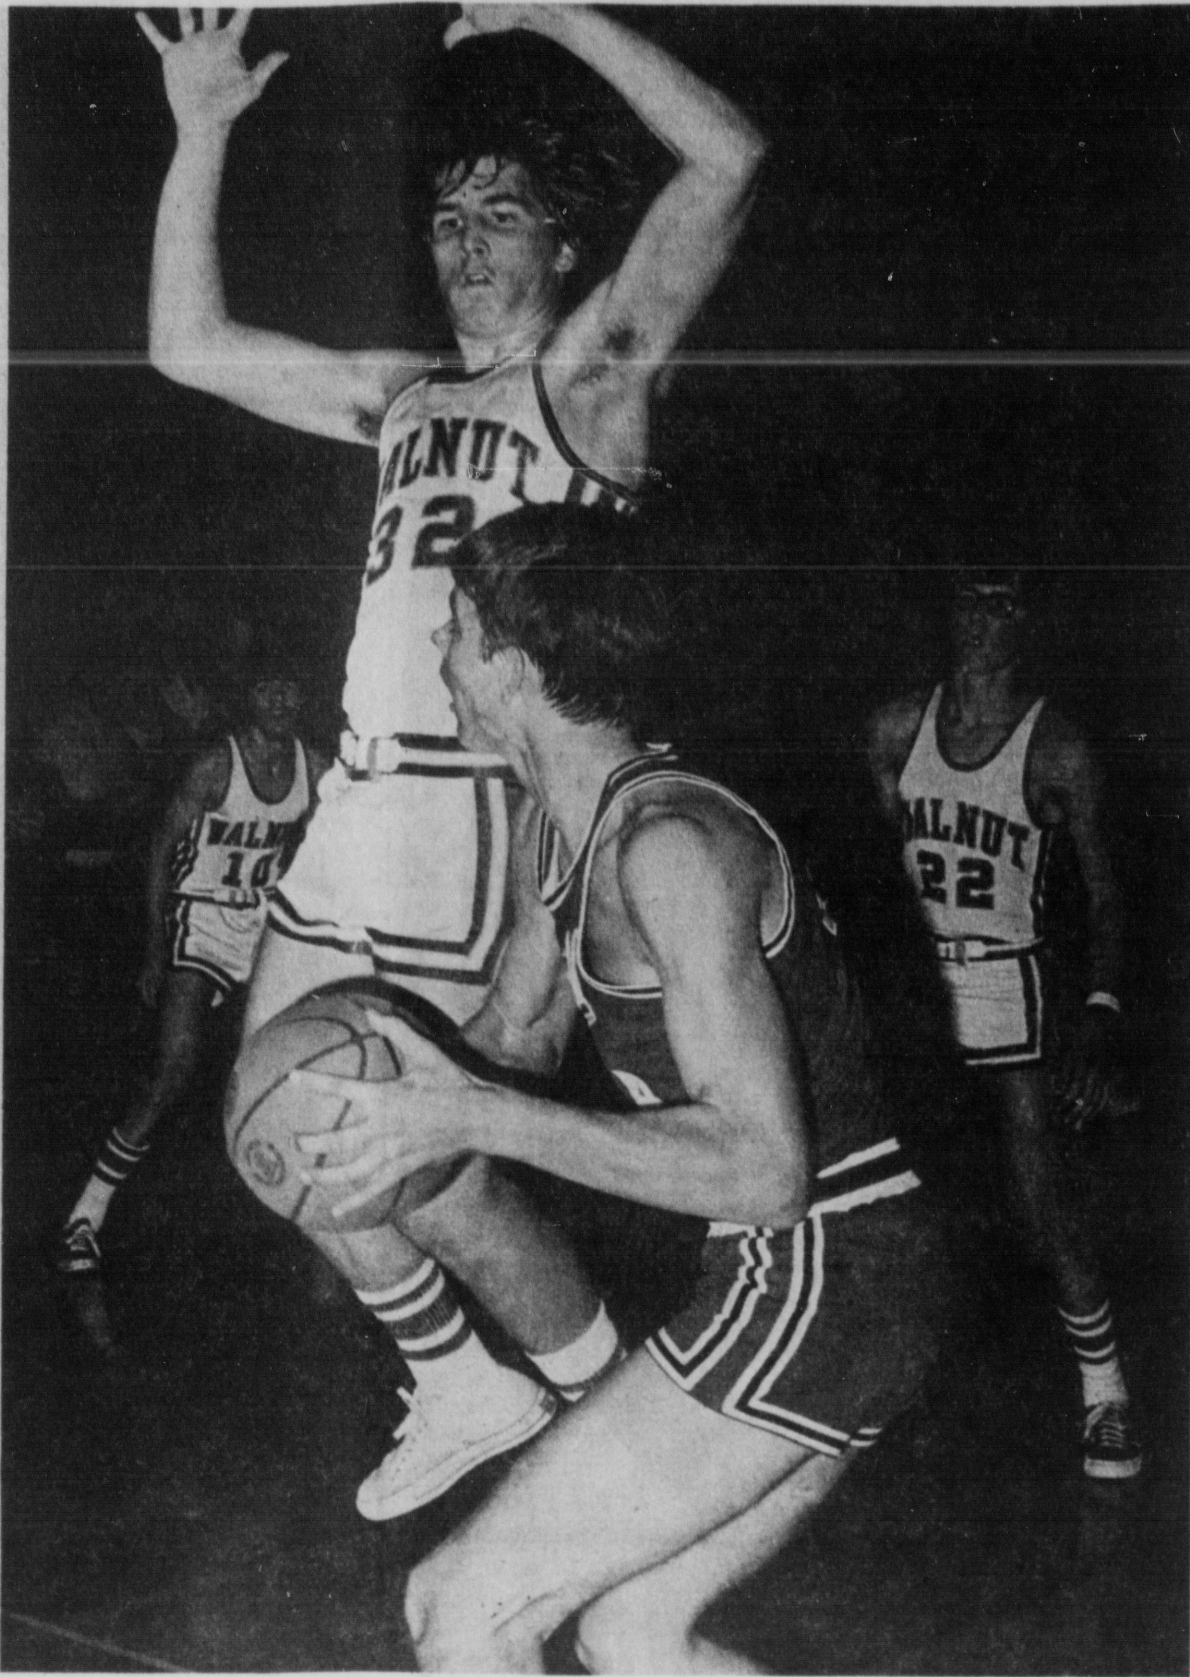

Meanwhile, Bob Woolf, an attorney who helped Barnes negotiate his contract, was perplexed and angry over the incident. He insisted that Barnes had a valid contract with the ABA team and was duty-bound to honor it. Woolf wanted words with the player, too.

"If he doesn't want to honor his contract," Woolf said Friday night from Boston, "if he wants to jump leagues, then I don't want to represent him any more."

When it was suggested that an invalid contract would enable Barnes to jump to the National Basketball Association, Woolf said "it is inconceivable that anyone would want to look for a loophole in Marvin's contract."

Meanwhile, an associate of Barnes, Marshall Boyer, said the star rookie no longer considered his contract valid and that he was finished with the Spirits.

"There's no way Marvin is going back," Boyer said.

Return to one-platoon football being proposed

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — There's a way to tackle the inflationary costs pinching the pocketbooks of university athletic departments across the country.

It's called single-platoon football, and Athletic Director Norval Richey of the University of Oregon has drafted a proposal that would bring about the change.

"It would basically ask the NCAA's rules committee to return us to one-platoon football," Richey said. "This would, first, save you many, many thousands of dollars. It also would help equalize competition."

And, he said, "It would lead to a return of player recognition by the fans. As it stands now," he said, "people don't recognize who they (players) are. What we're talking about is limited substitution."

"We know of seven of the eight Pacific-8 Conference schools who favor the proposal now," Richey said. The lone exception is the University of Southern California, where Coach John McKay is opposed, the Oregon athletic director said.

At Oregon State, Athletic Director Jim Barratt said he, too, favored the idea. "The only panacea I can see for this galloping inflation is a return to one-platoon football," he said, "and I'm going to fight for this at my own university, at the Pac-8 level in December and at the NCAA level in January."

meetings.

"I feel we can retain the same income with one-platoon football and also save ourselves about $200,000 annually," Barratt said.

Barratt said more and more major universities "are swinging this way. I see a snowballing effect. Even Bear Bryant of Alabama has come out publicly and said he may have to go to one-platoon football."

Richey added names such as Joe Paterno of Penn State and Frank Broyles of Arkansas as favoring the change.

"Oregon and Oregon State are not unique across the country in facing financial troubles," Richey said. "Of 119 major colleges in NCAA Division I, I would venture to say about 100 are in some sort of financial trouble, whether they know it or not."

Bears and Lions tangle

Battle of has beens and never weres

DETROIT (AP) — On paper, Sunday's football game between the Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions looks like a battle of has beens and never weres. But Coach Rick Forzano doesn't believe in paper lions.

"This is a most courageous team," the Lions' coach said after Detroit's last-second 20-19 National Football League victory over the New York Giants last Sunday.

"We're still alive and shooting for that 9-5 record and the playoffs," Forzano said. "I can't say enough ... they're doing a terrific job."

But even the optimistic Forzano must admit Detroit's chances are slim.

The Lions' 5-5 record puts them two games behind first-place Minnesota (7-3) in the National Football Conference Central Division. The Lions also trail the Washington Redskins (7-3) by two games in their bid for a wild-card position in the playoffs.

The Bears, meanwhile, continue to amaze the football world in general and Coach Abe Giron in particular. Nobody can explain why the Bears have so much trouble winning. And they don't have Bobby Douglass to kick around any more.

The Bears have lost four straight games since their 10-9 victory over Green Bay last month in the Windy City.

Chicago hasn't scored a touchdown in 19 consecutive quarters. In their losing stretch, they have tallied only three field goals and have been shut-out twice. The Bears' record stands now at 3-7.

But the Lions can't forget that one of those three victories came at their expense.

Remember, way back in September? The Bears started Detroit off on what would be a four-game losing streak by dumping the Lions 17-9 at Soldier Field.

Young quarterback Gary Huff bombed Detroit with long passes to Charles Wade to engineer that victory. Huff has been the starting quarterback in all 10 games for Chicago this year. The left-handed Douglass has seen action in only three games.

But the Lions have won four straight at home now, and they have high hopes they can run that to five with the Bears' rematch.

Sunday's contest should see at least one Lion club record, fall, too. Albie Taylor, with 926 carries, needs only 13 more Sunday to set a Lion record for most rushing attempts in a career. Nick Pietrosante holds the current mark with 938.

And, speaking of records, the Lions' front office revealed this week that kicker Errol Mann is only 15 points behind Doak Walker in the all-time Lions' scoring derby. Walker scored 534 points in his six-year career with Detroit while Mann has kicked for 519 in his six years with the club.

JOHN WOODYATT, 1512 W. Fourth St., Dixon, holds a trophy presented to him for a hole-in-one this past summer at the Emerald Hill golf course. Woodyatt aced the 160-yard 13th hole at Emerald Hill by using a seven iron on July 4. Woodyatt was awarded his trophy by the Dunlop Sporting Goods Co. Witnesses of the hole-in-one were Ron Pierce and Bob Moats. (Telegraph Photo)

Rams can wrap up tie with win

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Monday night was very good to the Oakland Raiders. The Los Angeles Rams hope it'll be good to them, too. But both teams will have to be good on Sunday.

Last Sunday, the Raiders defeated San Diego 17-10 to clinch at least a tie for the American Conference's West Division title, then locked it up outright when the runner-up Denver Broncos lost to visiting Kansas City on Monday night.

Now it's the Rams' chance. They can clinch a tie for the National Conference West title with a victory over the Minnesota Vikings. And if they get past that first big hurdle, they can lock it up if the runner-up New Orleans Saints lose to visiting Pittsburgh on Monday night.

In Sunday's other National Football League games, it's St. Louis at the New York Giants, Philadelphia at Washington, Dallas at Houston, Miami at the New York Jets, Buffalo at Cleveland, New England at Baltimore, Cincinnati at Kansas City, San Diego at Green Bay, Chicago at Detroit, Denver at Oakland and Atlanta at San Francisco.

The Rams won't be the only team on the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum turf with visions of titles dancing in their heads. The Vikings, too, can lock up a crown of their own, in the NFC's Central Division, and they can do it Sunday — but they need a lot more help. It'll take a Minnesota victory and losses by the Packers and Lions to sew it up.

The Rams and Vikes own identical 8-3 records — just as they owned identical 6-0 records when they met in 1973. "It's going to be interesting, just like last year," says Minnesota Coach Brant.

Grant would no doubt like the outcome to be the same as a year ago. The Vikings stayed unbeaten, edging Los Angeles 10-9, and ran their perfect string to nine in a row before losing to Atlanta.

"We haven't played against James Harris before," Grant said of the Rams' quarterback. "But from what we've seen, he certainly has a strong arm."

The Vikes have one, too, of course, in Fran Tarkenton, the No. 5 passer in the NFC just behind Harris. But both teams will probably rely more on strong legs.

The Rams have Lawrence McCutcheon, the league's rushing leader with 887 yards. He's also caught 26 passes for 278 yards, bringing his total yardage for the year to 1,165. The Vikes have Chuck Foreman, No. 3 in the NFC with 667. And Foreman has caught 39 passes for 455 yards, bringing his total yardage to 1,122.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, are in a dogfight in the NFC East, leading Washington by one game. The Cards are seven-point favorites to beat the Giants — but New York has always been a tough team for them, having won 46 of the 64 games they've played.

The Redskins, hoping to extend Philadelphia's nosebleed to six games, are coming off a hard-fought 28-21 victory over Dallas, their sixth triumph in seven games, and are in a strong position to take the NFC's wild-card playoff spot.

The Cowboys are all but out of the playoff picture. If they fail to get in, it will be the first time in nine years. Houston is riding the crest of a four-game winning streak and hopes to knock off Dallas, which routed the Oilers 56-10 four years ago in the teams' only previous meeting.

The Dolphins have won five in a row, a run that has carried them to the top of the AFC East, one game ahead of Buffalo. The Jets have won their last two with Joe Namath throwing a pair of touchdowns in each. The Bills need a victory to assure themselves of staying within striking distance of Miami and at least a game ahead of New England and Cincinnati in the AFC wild-card race. The Browns are in danger of suffering their first losing season in 18 years.

The Patriots are struggling to stay in the playoff picture, having dropped three in a row. And they're facing a Baltimore squad which pulled itself together last week for its first victory in four games.

The Bengals, invading Kansas City, are in a shaky position, having lost two in a row to fall 1½ games back of first place in the AFC Central Division. John Hadl, now in a Green Bay uniform, faces his former San Diego teammates while Chargers' rookie Don Woods faces what could have been Packers' teammates. Woods was cut by the Pack before the season began and, with San Diego, has rushed for 790 yards, fourth best in the AFC and better than anyone on Green Bay.

The Bears will try once again to score a touchdown, something they haven't done in nearly five full games. The Lions have won five of their last six to claw their way back into playoff contention.

The Broncos fell out of the playoff race with their Monday night loss, taking the steam out of their game against Oakland, whom they were expected to challenge for the AFC West title.

Marion Campbell is still looking for his first victory as coach of the Falcons, who have lost five in a row. They'll have to stop rookie quarterback Tom Owen, who passed for 313 yards and two touchdowns in the 49ers' 34-0 rout of the Bears a week ago that ended San Francisco's seven-game spin.

CONTINUING the protest against low prices for livestock and dairy products, a member of the National Farmers' Organization kills a calf with a revolver before dumping the carcass into a nearby trench. More than 650 calves have been killed by angry NFO members in Curtis, Wis.

Businessman trying to raise calf which would have been slaughtered

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A businessman irked by "protest" slaughter of calves is raising a calf, hoping to prove it can be done profitably.
Arnell Beckman, of suburban Coon Rapids, fired off an angry letter to Orville Voeltz of rural Emerald, Wis., last month after Wisconsin National Farmer Organization (NFO) members slaughtered more than 600 calves to protest low livestock prices.

Beckman, who farmed near Cambridge, Minn., until 10 years ago, said in his letter to the NFO member:
"I own a bulk oil business and filling station in New Brighton and can tell you I'm having a mighty rough struggle also. I have way over $100,000 investment in trucks, bulk plant and station. Besides doing the management, I spent a lot of time on the truck."

"I work six days a week from 6:30 a.m. to about 9 p.m. and know that I have not made $2 an hour for my time ..."

"If you sell me a calf, I will keep very detailed record as to exact cost for feed, hay and bedding and will absolutely not go out and solicit anything needed, but will buy it through market channels."

Voeltz had offered to give away a calf Oct. 16 when he sacrificed one of his calves at the NFO slaughter at Curtis, Wis. He wrote back and told Beckman he would give him the calf without charge.

Voeltz showed up at Beck-man's front door about a week later, saying, "I'm Orville Voeltz, the guy who's going to give you the calf."

The two men agreed that 38½ cents a pound — the price of live cattle on the day the NFO calves were slaughtered — would be Beckman's "selling price" in 18 months. The price was established to show Beckman how difficult it is to make a profit at that price.

"Just keep track of everything, every cent you spend," the farmer told Beckman. "Don't take no free food or nothing."

Beckman, still confident, asked the farmer to name his favorite charity. "If there should happen to be a profit, I'll give the money to the charity of your choice."

"Arnell, I know you're not going to make money," answered Voeltz. "The only thing you're going to do is prove my theory. You can experiment, but you're not going to make money — not at today's prices."

Beckman fixed up a shed last week as a home for the calf. He bought 50 pounds of milk replacer and was surprised that it cost him $16.72. And he purchased bedding — 50 cents for a bale of straw.

Beckman drove to the Voeltz farm last Sunday to pick up the 2-week old Holstein calf. He also checked with municipal authorities and was told he could raise one calf on his four acres of land.

The calf has a new home in the city and a new name: "Big Mouth."

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-606: Cardinal John J. Carberry established a chapter of Serra International while he presided over the bishopric that includes the home city of Purdue University.

"Dr. Crane," I was asked over the telephone, "could you address our Serra men's meeting next Thursday?"

Immediately I recognized the voice of Monsignor Henry F. Ward, who is one of the board members of our interfaith Scientific Marriage Foundation.

Monsignor Ward is a dynamic priest who exudes charisma and has helped steer many dedicated young men into the priesthood.

"Serra," he continued, "is composed of devout laymen who help recruit young people for religious service."

"The members thus speak at school convocations, stressing vocational careers that permit teen-agers to become ministers and dispensers of Christ's mysteries."

"I'm sure the Serra group at West Lafayette would enjoy your address entitled 'Jesus—the World's Greatest Psychologist.'"

Salute to Serra
Frank Kromm, head of the Hopkins Newspaper Syndicate that handles this "Worry Clinic," drove me over to the St. Bernard Catholic Church, where we met Monsignor Ward. Then the three of us went to the Serra meeting, where several of the members' wives were also present.

It was very stimulating to see how diligently these men try to encourage young men to enter the priesthood.

"Next Sunday," said the president, "one of our young priests is to conduct his first Mass here in West Lafayette."

"Since many of his Purdue students will be on vacation, we should be sure to give him our support by being present."

"And in two weeks, another young priest will be ordained at Ft. Wayne, so we should send a delegation there for that event."

"Moreover, we have been informed that we can address a high school convocation next week for 30 minutes on choosing a religious vocation."

"So who will volunteer to handle that 30-minute talk?" These Serra members were men ranging between 35 and 74 years of age.

They covered the major trades and professions and were banded together in their common goal of trying to recruit and sustain able leaders in their pulpits.

Although I have spoken from 1,000 pulpits of most of the Protestant and Jewish denominations, I had never previously seen such a dedicated group of laymen who try to motivate and encourage their young clergymen.

Serra should thus be imitated by all church denominations, for religious leadership is our greatest need today.

Alas, all denominations are finding a reduction in enrollments at their seminaries. Yet clergymen are the front-line troops who try to hold at bay both the paganism of external Communism, plus the internal decay in morality as seen by juvenile delinquency, divorce, drug addiction and the anti-establishment attacks of internal Communism.

The more clergymen we have in action, the fewer psychiatrists are needed.

And 50 times fewer divorces occur among couples who are both active together in the same church!

Remember, the less divorces we have, the fewer children become delinquent!

Wide range of ideas on mass transit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A bus propelled by passengers pumping on a set of pedals.

Put commuters into capsules and shoot them onto passing trains. Cushions on top of the trains would soften the landings.

A string of electromagnets to propel vehicles.

How do these ideas grab you as solutions to the mass transit problem?

They are among more than 12,000 responses to a nationwide advertising campaign by Atlantic Richfield Co. of Los Angeles, asking for ideas on public transportation.

Some are fantastic suggestions from children and others are seriously thought out proposals by business and professional people.

"There is some junk," said George V. Kriste, an Arco attorney who heads the team handling the mail.

"But the percentage who take it seriously is very high—70 per cent to 80 per cent or more. The ideas may be obsolete, or far-fetched, but most are serious."

Arco says it will publicize some ideas and pass others on to appropriate government agencies.

A team of readers throws out ideas which are obviously impractical or already in use. Ideas that seem to have a glimmer of hope are forwarded to a second review board composed of graduate students in transportation and urban planning.

The ideas that survive the second screening go on to a panel of professors of urban planning, architecture and transportation.

Not all of the ideas are new. Robert E. Spaulding, a retired architect of Mount Prospect, Ill., sent in a drawing he did in 1930 when he was fresh out of college with no job. The drawing shows rail cars traveling high above city streets, suspended from guideways attached to building facades.

One man suggested that commuters use single-seat, wedge-shaped cars that could be rolled onto railroad flatcars from alternate sides and carried downtown.

A woman suggested that buses be built so the seats were quickly removable, turning the bus into a cargo delivery vehicle when rush hour was over.

Some letter writers are mainly interested in financing rapid transit. One suggestion was to use state lotteries to raise cash, while another was for the government to issue federal transit loans.

A number of letters contained no suggestions at all. They were from government officials in California, Oregon, Arizona, New York and Washington, D.C., asking to see the ideas the public has come up with.
